WHEN YOU GET ARRESTED:

- Police have your fingerprints and photo on file.
- Your records may be shown to your school, other law enforcement and welfare agencies.

GETTING A COURT RECORD COULD MEAN:

- Losing public housing
- Being excluded from the military
- Delaying or losing your driver's permit/license
- Not working in daycare and summer camps
- Problems with your immigration status

REMEMBER:

- Juveniles are youth aged 10 to 16.
- Youth as young as 10 charged with serious crimes may be sent to adult court.
- Youth convicted of drug charges in adult court may have problems getting federal financial aid.

YOUR RECORD:

- Juvenile records are not automatically sealed when you turn 18.
- If you have been adjudicated (found guilty) in juvenile court, you do not have to say you've been convicted.
